The Offsite Construction Expo (OSCE) offers a focused presentation of the abilities of offsite construction across all markets. It features exhibits from offsite construction contractors, traditional contractors that have integrated offsite methods, offsite factories, transportation companies, architects, engineers, BIM suppliers, materials suppliers, and consultants of all types of offsite construction processes. Additionally, OSCE provides educational insights into offsite construction with multiple case studies presented each hour on the expo floor.

Exhibitors at OSCE will display their product or systems to architects, owners, developers, engineers, contractors, procurement officials, and policymakers already interested in learning more about offsite construction systems. The expo will include dedicated exhibit hours; an audience with the authority to buy; and added exposure through the OSCE website, emails, onsite signage, and pre-show mailing lists. If your company supplies the construction industry with offsite systems, you should definitely exhibit at this event. There simply is no greater opportunity to reach the construction industry’s decision makers.
Offsite construction consists of multiple components coming together to complete a project. OSCE brings all these components together to showcase their strengths. Attendees and exhibitors alike will benefit from the variety of modular vendors and component suppliers all in one room.

Previous show participants said:
